

Bob Losure

A former CNN anchor and correspondent for 12 years, Bob Losure is a captivating keynote speaker, moderator, and emcee with over 230 appearances worldwide since 1992. Bob's broadcast career included coverage of Hurricane Hugo, the 1989 San Francisco earthquake, and the 1990 Avianca airliner crash on Long Island. He shares his courageous story of beating cancer, triumphing over adversity, and living his dream. Bob is also in demand in voiceovers and on-camera corporate and commercial videos.

Topics Include

- Overcoming Adversity • Change
- Communication Skills
- Leadership • Conference Emcee and Hosting

Program Titles Include

- "Lights...Camera...Cancer!"
- "Is Your Business Ready for the Healthcare Revolution?"
- "Where Did the News Media make a Wrong Turn?"

Biography

Former CNN Headline News anchor and correspondent Bob Losure reached a total of 230 speaking and emcee presentations in March, 2010, telling his story of beating cancer and living his dream in a dramatic evening presentation before cancer survivors at Memorial University Medical Center in Savannah, GA. Bob's winning battle over testicular cancer 25 years ago included multiple operations and sessions of chemotherapy, and Bob miraculously survived to take a seat in the anchor chair at CNN Headline News during CNN's early years in Atlanta. His story of never giving up has been told to some of the most prestigious cancer groups in the nation, including Houston's M. D. Anderson Cancer Center and Provena St. Joseph's Medical Center in suburban Chicago.

Today, Mr. Losure is also in demand in voiceovers and on-camera corporate and commercial videos. His narration of ESPN2's Territories Wild with Tom Miranda outdoors show Saturday and Sunday mornings is now in its ninth year; and south Florida-based Newsmax Magazine, San Diego's InLab Ventures, the long-distance calling device MagicJack, and the rare metals seller Goldline owe much of their success to Bob's on-camera appeal in 2009 and 2010.

Testimonials

"Thank you, thank you for the remarkable service you performed as our Master of Ceremonies. You have a commanding presence and yet remarkably gentle demeanor." – Dick Stephenson, Chairman, Cancer Treatment Centers of America

"Thanks again for your great help this week here in West Palm Beach. All went really well, largely because you are such a pro." – Chris Ruddy, CEO, Newsmax Media, Inc.

"You were awesome, and that's not just me, it was the feedback from everyone. I wanted to let you know what a great job you did at our 2008 Cancer Survivor's Day celebration." – Madelyn Christopher, Physician Services, JFK Medical Center

"I'm looking forward to learning about how you developed and honed your outstanding communication skills which were so evident during our OfficeMax Summit. If you ever need an endorsement as a speaker or emcee, put me at the top of your list." – Michael Feuer, Chairman and CEO, OfficeMax

"You are 'on' as the voice of my ESPN series through 2010! Those vocal cords are Lloyds of London insurable, Bob. Your reads make the show!" – Tom Miranda, Territories Wild, ESPN2